

This notice has been issued to inform all persons planning to visit the INCHEM TOKYO 2009 / ECO-MANufacture 2009 of the efforts undertaken in relation to the “Swine flu”. These efforts have been undertaken to create a safe environment for visitors to the exhibition, and your understanding and support will be greatly appreciated.

-Guideline measures against swine flu (as of September 30 2009)-

1. Thermographic (body temperature measurement) apparatus will be installed near the entrance to the East Hall.

Please be aware that any visitor confirmed by thermographic (body temperature measurement) apparatus to have a high temperature will be expected to follow the instructions given by the nurse.

Should you experience any symptoms of influenza, such as sudden fever, coughing, sore throat, etc, please refrain from visiting the exhibition. When undergoing a medical examination at a nearby medical institution, please be sure to phone ahead and wear a mask during the examination. If you do not know any medical institutions, please phone and consult the swine flu counseling centers indicated below.

[Koto-ku Swine Flu Counseling Center: 03-5632-8666 (Weekdays: 9:00 ~ 17:00)

Contact for nighttime calls: Tokyo Swine Flu Counseling Center: 03-5320-4509]

2. Alcohol-based disinfectant solutions will be available at the entrances to the East Exhibition Hall.

Please be sure to disinfect your hands whenever entering or leaving the exhibition hall.

3. Masks will be available in accordance with demand during the term of the exposition.

Although this bureau will ensure that masks are available (for purchase), we ask that all visitors bring and wear masks as necessary. In addition, please be sure to wash hands regularly, gargle, and undertake regular fluid replacement to avoid dehydration.

This concludes the guideline measures against swine flu.

Hereafter, please be sure to check the exhibition website regularly, as any changes to these guidelines, made in accordance with instructions from the government or local authorities, will be updated immediately.
